

Production

ALPOLIC® is produced in Japan and the United States. In our production plants, we collect both aluminum, other metals and the core material for recycling by means of our original system, to keep an eco-friendly operation. Furthermore, our production plants are ISO 9001/14001 compliant, and also designated as wide district industrial waste disposal facilities. Therefore, we can take back scraps from customers for recycling in compliance with the proper operating standards.
